To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing in general support of the Sunday Blessings Group in the Auckland Central community.

The Sunday Blessings Group are a group of volunteers who provide and serve meals every Sunday at the Auckland Central Library and partner with other providers to support people who are homeless or who are vulnerable and need support.

I first met Laurie McLeod and Danielle leGallais at the Christmas meal service last year. I also met with them and representatives from the Auckland City Mission to discuss ways of collaborating together. They continue to provide food as well as collaborate with Tender Love & Care, the Salvation Army and Orange Sky to have shower and laundry facilities available.

As the MP for Auckland Central it is important to me that community groups, businesses, local and central government continue to work together to help our most vulnerable.

Yours Sincerely,

Hon Nikki Kaye
